

Coronavirus, Cars and You: Vehicle News and Advice for Staying Safe From Kelley Blue Book

IRVINE, Calif., April 6, 2020 /PRNewswire/ -- Even in normal times, buying, selling, owning and driving a car each brings its own joys and challenges. Given the current global health crisis, it brings another level of uncertainty. To help car buyers, sellers and owners answer their car questions during this unprecedented time, Kelley Blue Book is updating KBB.com daily with the latest news and advice on Coronavirus, Cars and You: News, Advice and Staying Safe.

"Our daily routines are being disrupted by COVID-19 (Coronavirus), making what would be an everyday task like buying or selling a vehicle that much more difficult if you don't know your options," said Karl Brauer, executive publisher for Kelley Blue Book. "Even current car owners are unsure how to reduce the spread of the virus when taking necessary trips to the store, or how to maintain their vehicle properly. It's important to serve as a resource for car shoppers and buyers looking for advice on how to navigate these uncertain times."

Deferring Car Payments During Coronavirus? Here are the Pros and Cons

Should I defer my auto payments? That's a question on everybody's mind right now while we are all in Coronavirus quarantine. Many automakers, through their vehicle finance departments or external finance partners, are offering buyers the opportunity to defer payments. It might sound like a great opportunity but it depends on a few factors. Understand how deferral works, what you're agreeing to and the bottom line. Now is a time when many automakers offer deferred payment options to help buyers secure their footing sooner rather than later.

Manufacturer Incentives During the Coronavirus Outbreak

COVID-19 affects the automotive industry in profound ways, with critical supply chains interrupted and factories closing. At this time, many dealerships throughout America are open, though some may be closed due to local government guidelines. Automakers are scrambling to offer incentives in the wake of the outbreak. These include discounts and deferred payments. New programs are announced daily, and you can continue to check KBB.com for the latest information.

How to Clean Your Car to Reduce the Spread of Coronavirus

Nothing will happen to your car, truck or SUV should the coronavirus get onboard. However, if not properly cleaned, your vehicle can become a harbor of all manner of unpleasantness. KBB.com experts suggest taking bottles of hand sanitizer and packets of disinfecting wipes to wipe down the interior of your car and any other area that could be considered a high-touch area. A good rule of thumb is to clean areas that you contact regularly and to sanitize your hands on an hourly basis.

Buy Cars at Home with Dealer Home Services

Kelley Blue Book has introduced Dealer Home Services. This new buying
