IRVINE, Calif.

Kelley Blue Book (<http://www.kbb.com/>), the leading provider of new and used vehicle information, today launches InfoDriver™, an expanded and redesigned data syndication solution providing third-parties access to 82 years of Kelley Blue Book data and information. InfoDriver makes Kelley Blue Book's trusted data and information available to companies for incorporation into their own automotive Web sites and software applications.

"Many companies approach us, wanting to incorporate Kelley Blue Book values and content within their consumer-facing Web sites and industry-facing applications," said Brad Prickett, director, syndication product management, Kelley Blue Book. "When they prefer to receive this information from us in the form of raw data, InfoDriver fills the bill allowing partners to develop, manage and house all of the information internally and control the user experience."

New for 2008, InfoDriver provides information on Early Model cars (1926-1987) and Generation data. In addition, InfoDriver can offer content such as New Car Reviews, Advice Articles, and Award Winners (such as Best Resale Value) from the experts in Kelley Blue Book's Editorial department.

"The newest iteration of Kelley Blue Book's data syndication products makes acquiring Kelley Blue Book vehicle information easier than ever before," said Prickett. "The real power of this product is the combination of rich content in a flexible format. We've made many improvements and simplifications to streamline the data integration process for our syndication customers."

Currently, Kelley Blue Book data and information is used by an array of organizations, industries and groups including; governmental agencies, insurance companies, finance companies, rental car agencies, affinity groups, credit unions, online news sites, Web portals, auction houses, dealerships and vehicle manufacturers.
